

CAMPUS MINISTRY COLEMAN-MORSE CENTER

Liturgical Commissioners Retreat

ALLIE GREENE

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF LITURGY

“Each August, Campus Ministry hosts a retreat for undergraduate students who have leadership roles in their residence halls’ weekly liturgies. These students serve as sacristans, Eucharistic ministers, lectors, and musicians for their individual hall Masses, and they join together on retreat to ground their ministry in discipleship and to build community together with students in similar roles. The Coleman-Morse Center is an integral gift to the execution of this retreat. Within the building’s unique and diverse spaces, students can participate in training workshops, prepare and share meals, rehearse liturgical music, and pray together all in one place.”

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

Need to Talk

“Our Need to Talk Ministry provides the opportunity for people at Notre Dame to seek out the listening ear and pastoral presence of our Campus Ministry Staff. Each Monday through Thursday, a Campus Minister from our staff is present for two hours in the evening. They are there to receive any member of our community who needs to talk through a situation, wants to grow deeper in faith, or has something weighing on their heart. In this space, we are able to bring the hospitality and compassion of Christ to each person that comes in and share in their joy, hope, and sorrow. This is a simple but profound ministry. We will usually see at least one person take advantage of this opportunity each night, though at times more. We have walked with students grieving the loss of a loved one or a relationship. We have also introduced people to ways of prayer and encountering God or connecting them with other resources in Campus Ministry or across campus. This space, both physically and figuratively, is sacred in that we truly have the opportunity to encounter Christ and to be Christ’s hands and feet, ears and mouth to those we serve.”

MIKE URBANIAK
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF
PASTORAL CARE

IN GRATITUDE

“Coleman-Morse is an absolute gift to the Department of Campus Ministry. The beauty and flexibility of the space allows us to minister in new and creative ways. Always know of my profound gratitude for this exceptional home for students at Notre Dame.”

REV. PETER MCCORMICK, C.S.C.
DIRECTOR OF CAMPUS MINISTRY

UNIVERSITY OF
NOTRE DAME